KNOLL 1956

STATE TEACHERS

Lowell, Massachusetts

COLLEGE

It is the dream of all peoples and the hope of all nations to attain world peace: humanity's most urgent and most desperate need. There have been times when world peace has come close to us, but we have greeted the spirit of peace with war and more war. Peace eludes us when war is the means. There is a way to achieve this goal so tenaciously held by our predecessors and contemporaries: through education of the whole man, spiritually, mentally and physically. Nothing worthwhile has ever been accomplished without understanding people. Education implants truth, truth charity, and charity peace.

TO A WONDERFUL CLASS

Verse 1: I'm as normal as all class advisors when I
 2: All through these years of pleasure and labor; We have
 3: You've done your best in everything asked you; We've seen
 4: I've watched each one of you as you have grown, as proud find that I must say good-bye, No more a sharp lady been joined in this one great endeavor, So you will note there's a all of our past dreams come true, Both loyal and right as and as pleased as though my own (Chorus)

Dear without heart but instead now I almost could cry, lump in my throat when to each I must say my goodbye, with will and with might you have sought the truth and the light.

Chorus: If you'll excuse an expression I use, I'm so proud, I'm so proud, I'm so proud, I'm so proud of this wonderful class

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
State Teachers College at Lowell

The angels at Bethlehem knew that "peace on earth" requires "men of good will." It is here that the teacher plays an essential part. Men of good will are developed principally through education, and through that type of education which develops the whole man.

Good will is the outgrowth of love of fellow man, which comes from understanding, from tolerance and charity, from character, intellect and soul. As the light of civilization brightens, the shadows of ignorance, hatred and fear fade away.

The need today is for more than scientists, technicians or teachers. It is for cultured human beings whose primary devotion is to humanity above parochial and professional preoccupations. But one devotion does not necessarily exclude the other. "Seek ye therefore first the kingdom of God and His justice; and all these things shall be added unto you."

Paul D. O'Leary

A class, like a family, develops as the members become more aware of their responsibilities for themselves and for their fellow members. The first years of a family may find even the parents in a state of upheaval, wanting so much to do right by their young ones; yet wanting to set a pace, a standard for the healthy mental, spiritual, and bodily development of the family unit. Those early days allow for an awareness of the potentiality of individual contributions. Inevitably, the clash occurs. But when met well, there emerges a wiser individual and a stronger family or class group. Congratulations are due to each and every one of you for the way in which you have met the challenge of growth, development and maturity. Good luck.

CLASS HISTORY

Happy, happy, happy. Happy Talk...

One hundred thirty eager travellers boarded the S.S.L.T.C. in September, 1952, to embark on a four year voyage. Despite the confusion of departure a congenial atmosphere soon developed as a result of the friendliness and encouragement of the officers and experienced crew.

Our future course had hardly been charted, when a menacing, piratical group descended upon us. They took great delight in heckling us, and issued uniforms consisting of vegetable-decorated ragbags, odd shoes and pajama bottoms. To add to our discomfort, we were decorated with war paint and balloons, and forced to perform unusual stunts. United by mutual bewilderment, we became better acquainted with members of our own group. This strategy, we later learned, was the main purpose of our "initiation." The clamor subsided, and we learned that the seemingly unfriendly group was, in reality, our wonderful "big sisters and brothers."

We soon organized sufficiently to elect class officers, and Dr. John R. Hart as advisor. Our first year was efficiently managed by Dick McGrath, Don Lescard, Marcia Daley and Fred Gallagher.

Our initial social function, the Snowball Dance, was a rollicking success. But hardly had the decorations been taken down, when we encountered difficulty on board. On February 5, flames charred our starboard side, and forced our proud ship to port for repairs. A tragedy had been avoided by the capability of the faculty and students, but still, many members of the freshman and junior crew were injured, along with members of the faculty.

New quarters were soon provided by Lowell Technological Institute, thus enabling us to resume our studies and social activities, despite the unfamiliar, but cordial, surroundings. Two such functions were our roller skating parties, where many seamen displayed unsteady legs, but determinedly tried again.

Just before our summer vacation, we were plunged into final exams, which shattered us with premonitions of failure. However, we recovered sufficiently to attend a class beach party which was a great success despite tears of anticipated loneliness.

Our journey was resumed in the fall in a ship gleaming with new rigging. Several of the original crew had not returned but our sadness was tempered by our advanced position on board. With the newly acquired sophistication of sophomores, we were ready to tackle duties which included the Senior Investiture of our "big sister and brother" class of 1954. This was closely followed by a cake sale, which provided as much fun as it did profit.

Five days later the social room again rustled with the activity of set-up committees for the Pumpkin Jump, a barn dance which included everything that enlivened old Grandad's country gatherings. November 25 was certainly a memorable day on our social calendar.

The next few months were times of adjustment and introduction to history, geography and education. To many of us, field trips were a new experience, and Logan Airport and the Museum of Fine Arts were subjected to our boisterous, and curious, invasion.

February 14 was a "red letter" day in our sophomore year, and weeks before we had enthusiastically made plans for our Valentine semi-formal dance, Moonlight Magic, which again reflected the talents and cooperation of our class.

As the school year drew to a close, we were saddened by the impending departure of our beloved relative class. Our final tribute was a surprise presentation entitled "This is Your Life," in which we displayed our gratitude and affection to the Class of '54. Our master of ceremonies, Gil DiLoreto, introduced such acts as the nimble-toed "ballerinas," a peppy chorus line, and songs from "Manhattan Magic," all reminiscent of their former days of merriment.

The rest of the term was devoted to many farewell parties which left both classes with memories of the bond of friendship between "big" and "little" sisters and brothers.

September, 1954, started a year filled with anticipation and apprehension. Methods and practice school suddenly became a reality, and the realization that we were juniors made us aware of the rough seas we would encounter.

However, we were temporarily diverted by the onslaught of new freshman crew members. Deprived of the joys of initiation, both classes nevertheless established firm and lasting friendships.

We also elected new class leaders, and President Janet King and class advisor, Dr. Mary E. McGauvran, led us through a difficult period. Busy plans for our Junior Prom somewhat alleviated the academic pressures imposed upon us, and December 27 was the date set for our biggest and most fabulous activity to be held in the Bay State Room at the Hotel Statler. The night was a gala one, with all members on deck enjoying the dreamy, romantic atmosphere.

Second semester came, with half of the class in training school, coming to the night meetings with excited reports of their experiences. This year, also, we enjoyed the use of a new ship, a beautiful addition to our fleet.

Step singing marked the end of the year, with strains from "South Pacific" being sung with spirit, if not talent.

We again boarded ship in the fall, for the last lap of our journey. The thought that we were Seniors was somewhat astounding, and even incredible, but became a reality as plans were formulated for Investiture. On November 20, we donned our caps and gowns and, with them, a new dignity and assurance of our futures.

Undaunted by the solemnity of this occasion, we joined the sophomore class in a spaghetti supper, which left many sides aching from over-indulgence and laughter.

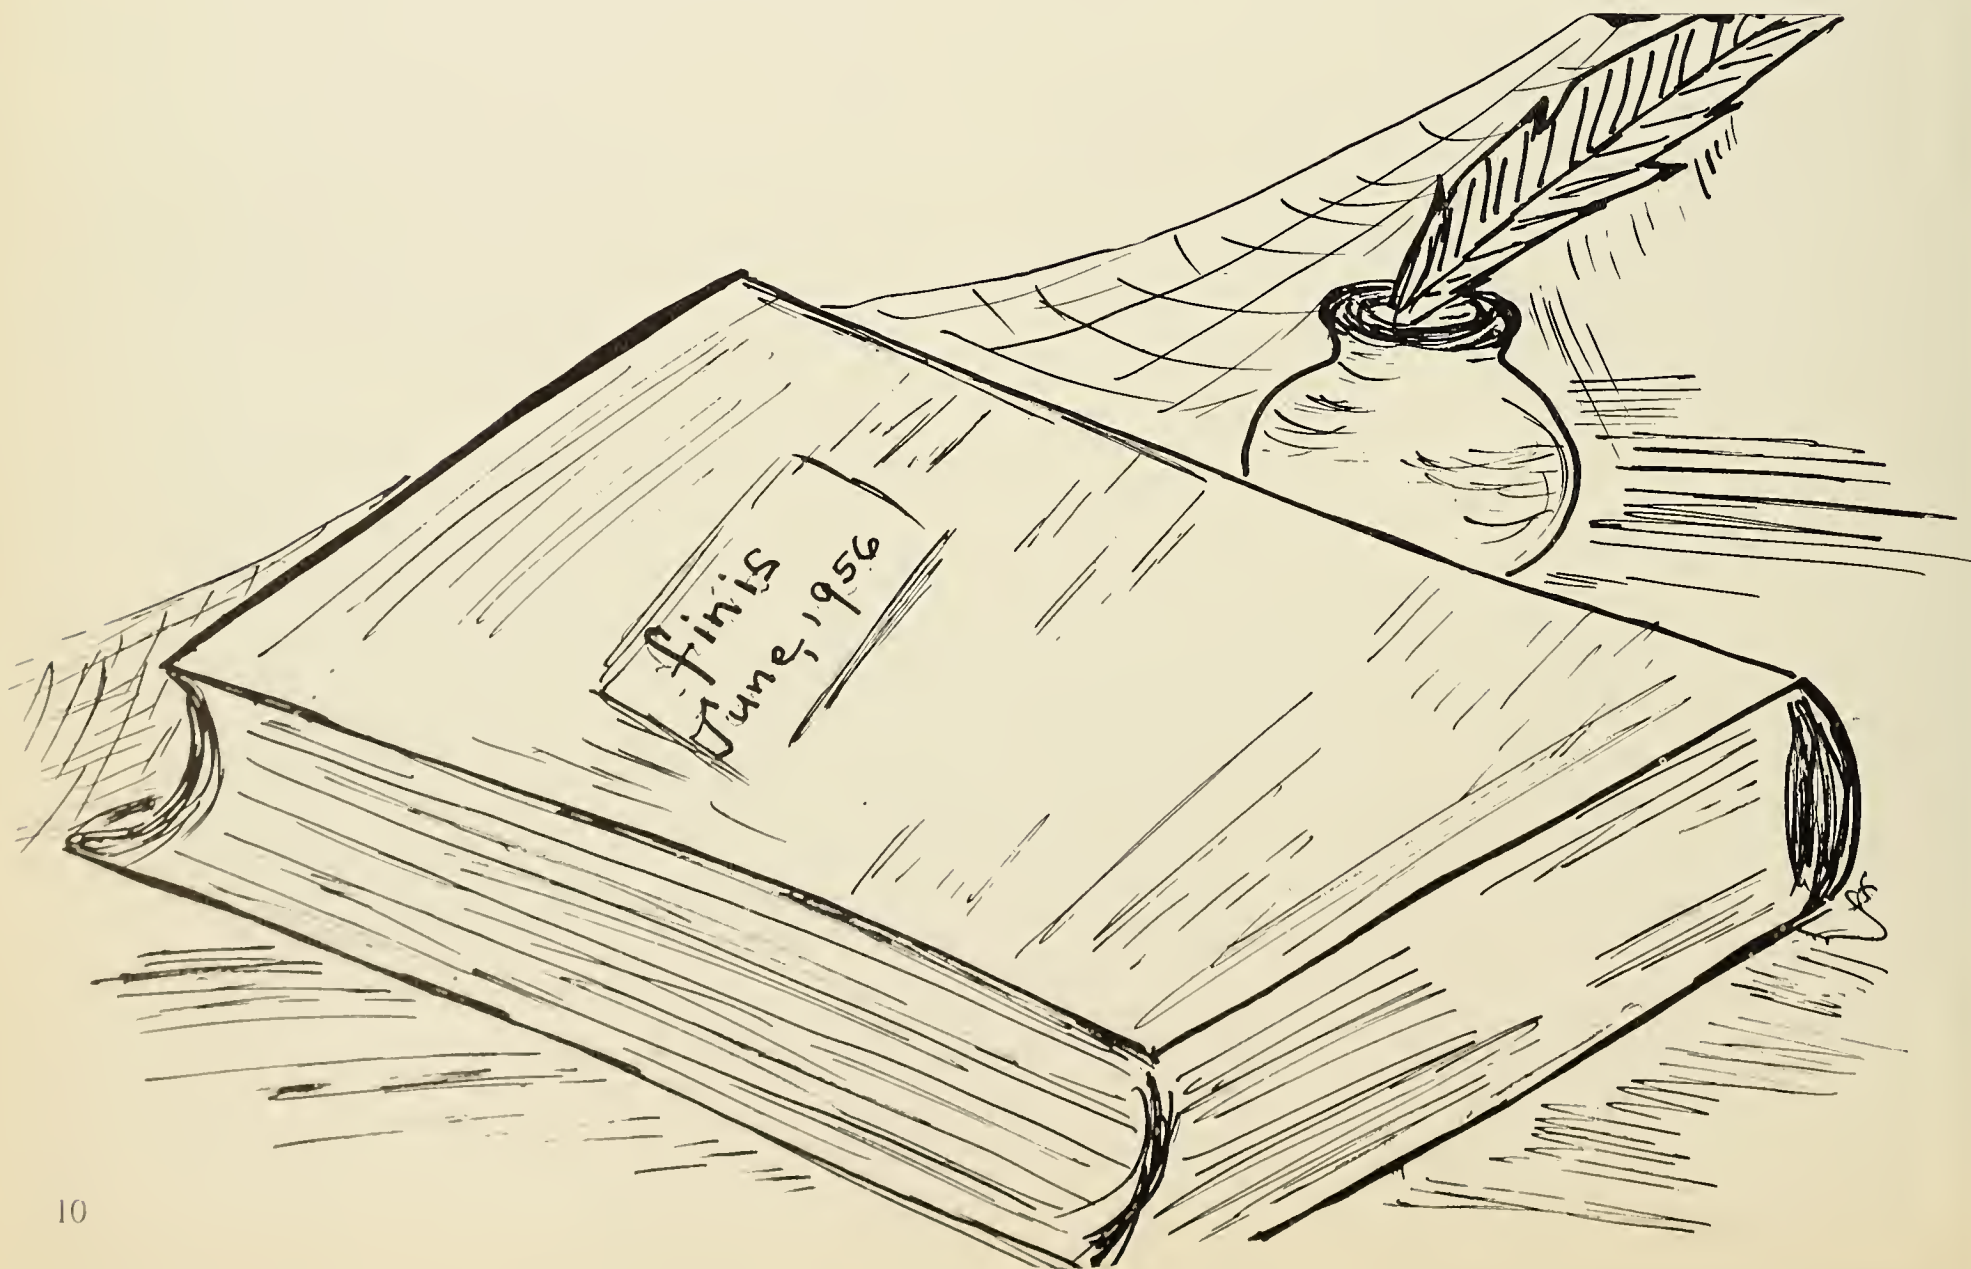

On December 3, the beautifully decorated gym was the scene of Silver Serenade, made successful by the combined efforts of the seniors, and the stagecraft class. The evening was notable for its blue and silver decor, and its outstanding punch.

From January, 1956, to June, seniors could be found in any number of busy activities, characterized by the excitement of every journey's end. Interviews with superintendents produced indecision and uncertainty in the minds of many, but eventually each signed a contract suited to his "individual interests, needs and abilities."

Graduation was no longer a hazy prospect, and the excitement of Commencement was heightened by the activity of Senior Week. Few members of the class of '56 will forget the Moonlight Cruise, Senior Formal, or any of our last days together as shipmates, on board the S.S. Lowell Teachers College.

A black and white photograph of a group of thirteen young people, likely a school organization, posed around a long table. Five are seated at the table, and eight are standing behind them. They are dressed in mid-20th-century attire. The group consists of seven women and six men. The women are wearing dresses, blouses, and skirts, while the men are wearing suits or sweaters. The setting appears to be indoors with a wood-paneled wall in the background. The table is a long, dark, rectangular table with a light-colored top. The chairs are simple wooden chairs. The overall tone is formal and organized.

FACULTY "DITES MOI..."

It is said that "years know more than books." Now we too can echo these words. In passing four years with you, we have come to learn many things. Part of these knowledges comes from texts, but the greatest share stems from you and your years. Your experience and wisdom have enriched our lives and have left an even deeper mark than the volumes we have absorbed.

Even greater manifestations of our gratitude will grow with the years; for now, our humble thank you.

W.R.O.

The Women's Recreational Organization is a comparatively new organization on our L.T.C. campus. A large number of women students are active members of this sports program which gives each girl an equal opportunity to participate in a great many sports. A wide variety of activities are offered by the W.R.O. and in all of the games a friendly competition exists between the two student groups, Stars and Comets. The W.R.O. is a valuable organization which should grow greatly in the future.

The Men's Athletic Association is one of the most active organizations at our college. Every male student is a member of this organization, giving all an equal opportunity to take part in the many sports which are offered. The main purpose is to offer the men students a well-rounded intramural sports program. The M.A.A. has grown greatly in the last two years and should continue to do so in the years to come.
